Twenty-Four Freshmen Are Given HonorsNemacheck, Hubbard, Norton
and Siedschlag Get Highest Scholastic Ranking

Twenty-four freshmen, headed by Francis Nemacheck, Bessemer, Michigan; Katherine Hubbard, West Allis; Stanley Norton, Ludington, Michigan; and Beatrice Siedschlag, Randolph, have won honorable recognition by maintaining scholastic averages of 88 or above during the first semester. On account of the difference in the house of work carried, it is impossible to distinguish who of the first ranking four have made the greatest achievement.

The twenty-four freshmen who comprise this honor roll have attained grades ranging from 88 to 93 while carrying the necessary fifteen hours of college work. Those receiving honors are Karin Blom, Michigan City, Indiana; Leora Calkins, Shawano; Emma Dieckroeger, West Salem; Ellsworth Ellingboe, Menasha; Irma-garde Faber, Milwaukee; Helen Gilman, Appleton; Kathryn Hubbard, West Allis; Marion Jaeger, Waupaca; Helen Jones, Menasha; Eleanor Lea, Elgin, Illinois; Arthur Lean, Houghton, Michigan; Alice Michels, Calumet, Michigan; Francis Nemacheck, Bessemer, Michigan; Stanley Norton, Ludington, Michigan; Roxyllana Patterson, Evansville; Betty Post, Appleton; Pearl Seybold, Hilbert; Beatrice Siedschlag, Randolph; Walter Voeks, Appleton; Ora Zuehlke, Appleton; Helen Bergeman, South Milwaukee; Margaret Eberlein, Shawano; Jennie Goelzer, Milwaukee; and Charles Woodward, Little Rapids.

No-Decision Debate
Proves Exciting At
U. Of Washington

"Help, police!" was the headline of an article in the Seattle Post Journal concerning a debate held recently at the University of Washington, which proves that, contrary to common opinion, a non-decision debate can be exciting.

The event was one of a series of International debates between debaters from the University of British Columbia and those of the University of Washington, at which Professor Orr, former Lawrence professor, is now instructor and debate coach. At the close of the debate, a man in the audience arose and after asking if he might speak a few words, launched into a bitter tirade against debate coaches and debates in general. The chairman rose to protest, but the speaker jumped up on the platform, pushed the chairman back into his chair and continued.

The question being debated concerned political democracy and was conducted under the Oregon system, each side having two speakers, one to formally present the argument and the other to answer any questions from the audience. The irate gentleman in the audience claimed he had come to discover whether democracy was a failure and the entire debate had centered around a technicality rather than answering the question.

After succeeding in calming the man, Mr. Carl Windesheim, '23, who is an instructor in speech at the University, attempted to correct his impression of debates and debate coaches.

The Seattle paper suggested that perhaps in the future armed officers might be necessary to keep order at debates.

Numeral Club Formed
By Members of W.A.A.

The eight members of W.A.A. who have earned their numerals met Tuesday night at the home of Mary Ellen Bond, '28, to organize the Numeral club. The immediate purpose of the club is to foster interest in the activities of the association. Temporary committees were appointed and work on the constitution started.

1927 Production Of Haresfoot Is Titled
"Meet The Prince"Former Lawrentian Writes Songs
For Madison Musical
Comedy

The Haresfoot club production for this year is "Meet the Prince." The play was written by John Moran, Jr. of Madison, who is a senior in the college of Letters and Science at the University of Wisconsin.

Owen Lyons who was formerly a student at Lawrence college and who wrote the script for the presentation of last year, "Mary Ann" has written a few musical numbers which are being featured for this year's show.

This is the twenty-ninth annual production of the club, and will be shown in Rockford, Chicago, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Peoria, Kenosha, Racine, Milwaukee, Sheboygan, Oshkosh, Appleton, Madison, Janesville, and the final performance will be given in Madison on the evening of April 30. This will be the first year that a Haresfoot show will be presented in St. Louis and Janesville.

The plot is a take off on the "Student Prince", and is full of moonlight romance on the deck of the trans-Atlantic liner, mystery dealing with the theft of a set of final examination papers, a fictitious prince who claims that he is not a student and no relation to the Student Prince, and a happy jumble of court intrigue that finally untangles itself at the Prom at Chillicothe, Ohio.

Now as for the "ladies", for as you know "All our girls are men, yet every one's a lady". Kerbert Earle has taken the place of Byron Rivers who was the leading "lady" of "Mary Ann". Kerbert should be well remembered as the vamp of "Mary Ann" in an unsuccessful attempt to ruin "By's" romance.

Charles Lease, '24, Oconto, visited with Sigma Phi Epsilon brothers over the week-end.

For Literary Project

Friday, March 25 has been announced as the deadline for all contributions to the Theta Sigma Phi annual literary supplement which will be published April 12. Poets and short story writers are urged to submit their work to any member of Theta Sigma Phi by this date.

The Theta Sig annual literary supplement has become one of the traditions of Lawrence college, and it aims to bring before its readers the work of a group of representative Lawrence writers.

Jim Ford, '28, won the prose prize and Helena Koletzke, ex-'28, the poetry award in last year's contest. The judges will be announced later.

Twenty-five members of the general science classes of the Roosevelt junior high school visited the observatory Tuesday evening.

Conrad Hoffman Tells About Student Service

"We have the machinery necessary to get international cooperation, but we lack Christ-like personality to act as a dynamic force", said Mr. Conrad Hoffman, director of the International Student Service at Geneva, Switzerland, in a speech at Lawrence Memorial chapel Tuesday night.

It is up to the students of the world to furnish the dynamic force for international cooperation, Mr. Hoffman said. He pointed out that European students are striving toward this ideal. Their spirit contrasted with that of American students shows that they know what they are after; they know that there is something to be gotten from life. There is uniformity here, individuality there; there, a personality daring to be different, here, a conformity to type, a fear of being different.

However, both European and American students can give a great deal to each other, the speaker continued. The European needs the flexibility and the naiveness of the American student and the American needs the European's attitude toward life and his appreciation of values. The Europeans have had to face realities and they have had to learn to think. They now have to face burning issues such as the anti-semitism movement in Hungary, tuberculosis among students in Switzerland, starvation in Russia and France, but their spirit will not permit them to give up the thing for which they have sacrificed so much. They wish to go home and give what they have learned to others less fortunate.

Because of these conditions student cooperative associations have grown up. These organizations have established restaurants, clothing stores, and employment bureaus, all managed by students. Despite their extreme poverty, loan funds have been raised among students themselves to help poorer students. In Switzerland a voluntary tax of two dollars per person (the equivalent of fifteen dollars here) per year was raised to fight tuberculosis.

"The European students have had enough to make anyone despair, said Mr. Hoffman in closing, "but they have a God given ideal of the world-brotherhood, which helps them to carry on. They have the courage to believe that they can move toward that ideal."

Mr. Hoffman also spoke in convocation Tuesday morning. He is an American and served for six years as professor in the biology department at the University of Wisconsin.

By Enthusiastic AudiencesDr. Crane Speaks On Value of Fraternities

How fraternities and sororities can help the individual in preparing for life was the subject of a discussion led by Dr. Henry Hitt Crane at a joint meeting of Pan-Prex and the fraternity presidents held in the French room of the Conway hotel Wednesday noon.

The discussion was preceded by a luncheon, for which Zeta Tau Alpha made the arrangements. Guests were Dean Wilson Naylor, Dr. John MacHarg, Mr. Ralph Watts, and Miss Twila Lytton.

Last Lecture of Series To Be Delivered at Chapel This Evening

"Christianity is Life," said Dr. Henry H. Crane, Wednesday in his opening speech of a three day series of talks before convocation audiences. "Christianity is not what you think, or do, or feel, it is what you are."

"A man is a Christian to the extent that he is alive to everything that is finest and best," he continued, "and he is something other than Christian to the extent that he is dead to these things."

Dr. Crane developed this theme to show that while he said that Christianity was Life, he used the term "Life" in a relative sense. Such a thing runs in streaks, he said, and added that there are times when we are vitally alive to the best things and again there are times when we are dead.

"How do we get this Life?" he asked, and then answered that it came only by contact. "Contact is the heart of Christianity, for the seed of the truth can only be planted in this way. The miracle of the transmission of life is incomprehensible", he continued, "and the only way to get it is to open our lives to others, to expand. If we do this, part of the personality of the person we are in contact with will flow to us, and we'll live too."

Speaking again Wednesday evening in the chapel before an enthusiastic audience, Dr. Crane developed his theme to the ways of identifying a real Christian. "How can we tell a real Christian when we see him?", he asked. "I'll tell you. Christ was the Christian model, and a man who shows the virtues of Jesus is likewise. If he is unselfish, if he is doing good, if he is giving always, not trying to get something, if he doesn't bear grudges, if he is clean, pure, and loyal as was Christ, then he is a Christian."

"Many people go about saying that they are prepared for this life," he (Continued on Page 4)

Printing Bill Is Prominent Item In
Glee Club Budget

That the Glee Club, like most business ventures, involves considerable expense, is evidenced by the amount of printing necessary.

This year the presses have printed fifteen thousand tickets, and ten thousand programs. In addition, twelve hundred posters have been printed, bearing an attractive picture of the club. The programs constitute the largest item of printing expense. The entire libretto, the personnel, the tour, etc. are printed on its eight pages; and President Wriston has written an introductory letter which is included. Cuts of the club and individual cuts of several members and the director have been circulated to the various papers, so that the club will receive wide publicity.

Episcopal Choir Sings

The Methodist vespers next Sunday afternoon will be featured by the Episcopal Choir of Green Bay. Mr. Alex Enna, of the Enna School of Music of that city, is the director. The choir will sing a cantata appropriate to the Lenten season, Manner's "Olivet to Calvary".

Attractions for the remainder of the series are "The Rose Maiden" sung by the High School chorus, the Carroll College Glee Club, and the local Methodist choir. The choir will give the famous "Seven Last Words" on the afternoon of Palm Sunday.

RE-VITALIZED

"He came, we saw, he conquered"—meaning, of course, Henry Hitt Crane.

It is generally agreed that religion is one of the hardest things with which to approach a student audience, and yet the new vitality which this man has brought to us has stirred our religious consciousness and given us a fresh interest in the higher values of life. He has not brought us a new religion—he has merely revealed to us, in a masterly way, the things which we ourselves think, and, in most cases, act. That Christianity is LIFE, is something we have felt, but have never been able to express. That contacts with great personalities are the finest things in life is something we have always known, but never called religion.

If this new inspiration is permitted to die out—is just a spasm—then Dr. Crane's work has been fruitless. While it is still uppermost in our minds it is up to us to incorporate it into our lives, make it a springboard to that fuller life which comes from right living. To do this, we must be, as Dr. Crane is, the embodiment of all those things which he spoke of Wednesday morning: religion with righteousness, goodness with gladness, love with loyalty.

CONGRATULATIONS

Our congratulations to the successful nine! Even those who "sit in the seat of the scornful" are willing to admit that election to Phi Beta Kappa is one of the high spots in a college career. The ridicule and satire to which Phi Beta Kappa has been subjected by persons of lesser intellect and greater jealousy are too ridiculous to deserve refutation. Phi Beta Kappa does not elect the "greasy grind"—it confers its honor upon men and women who are intellectually alive, people who have good minds and know how to use them.

SHORT-CUTTING TABOO

We're all agreed—spring is here. And with it comes the overwhelming urge to cut corners on the campus—to play the game of Short Cut. The object of this game, it will be remembered, is to get from one point on the campus to another by walking on as little pavement as possible, with bonus points for those most successful in making paths, tracking mud, etc.

Our campus is really quite beautiful—let's make it an individual problem to keep it that way.

We heartily subscribe to the statement made by President Sills last week at the Bowdoin dinner in Boston, where he said "The object of the college is not to teach a man how to earn a living but how to live."—Bowdoin Orient.

"Men may come, and men may go; But the Dustpan goes on forever." Or, at least, so we hope. Yes, we agree that it should be improved, but granting that, we (which means the editor, Clippy, and ourselves) want someone to "carry on the tradition." In other words, we are looking for some promising individual to conduct this column next year. Our contributors heretofore have been anonymous, but we want you to MAKE YOURSELVES KNOWN.

The job has certain disadvantages, we admit. You'll make some enemies, and sometimes it's hard to fill up a whole column with supposed "humor". And you may receive invitations to "call at my office at your earliest convenience."

But—you hear ALL the good jokes. Come on—try out!

Last week's book review spoke of the "Cosmic urge of love." From what we have observed around here, it seems to be the cosmic urge.

It wasn't a tea!

Frat: We caught five fellows at the house kissing the maid.

Frater: Did you fire the poor girl?

Frat: Oh, no. We're going to fine the boys a dollar apiece until we get our bills paid.

One of the Theta Sigs had an idea while vainly attempting to study in the Lawrentian room that the way to make Hamar house a real social center would be to move the Lawrentian office over there.

The memory of our college days is getting dearer and dearer. Next year's memories will be about forty dollars dearer.

Thanks for them kind words of congratulation.

Dr. Youtz Finishes Auto Trip To Coast

Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Youtz, who left here late in January, have arrived in California, their destination. They made the journey by car.

Dr. Youtz wrote of the trip to Dr. Florence Stouder, "We have finally reached Whittier after five weeks of travel, eight days of which we were compelled, because of the heavy rains, to spend at Phoenix, Arizona. The heavy rains washed out a great number of bridges, and we were unable to continue our journey northward, southward, or westward. When the rivers did recede, and we were able to get started again, the car had to be dragged across one stream by a tractor."

Leaving their car at Williams, Professor and Mrs. Youtz took a train to the Grand Canyon, where they spent a day.

Dr. and Mrs. Youtz are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mitchell, at Whittier.

Spanish Holiday To Be Celebrated April 26

"La Suerta De Isabelita" by Martinez-Sierra will be presented by the Spanish department on April 26 as part of the program celebrating Juegos Florales, an old Spanish holiday when prizes were awarded to those whose work was deemed the best.

On this day there will be awarded a trophy cup for the best Spanish play that has been written by a student in the department. Prizes will also be given for the best short story or essay in Spanish, an essay in English on some Spanish subject, a translation of some approved piece of literature.

Only tentative plans have been formulated for the rest of the program. However, it is planned to have a queen and her court, as was the early Spanish custom for this occasion. The queen will present the prizes to the winners.

Bluefins To Meet Chicago "Y" Team At Y. M. C. A. Pool

Meet Will Place Swimming Among Lawrentian Inter-Collegiate
Sports For First Time

For the first time in the history of the college a swimming team will represent the Blue against a college team when Coach Gebhardt's Bluefins meet the Chicago "Y" College team at the Appleton Y.M.C.A. pool on Monday evening at eight o'clock.

The strength of the Chicago team is relatively unknown this season, but they have had an intercollegiate team for several years and have set up a fine record of victories. They will bring eight natators for the meet.

Just who will swim the events for the Blues is indefinite as yet, although it is certain that George Kline will be entered in the dashes. Montague and Dreher will swim the breast stroke, while LeFevre, a frosh, may do the 220 and possibly one or two other events. Ellis, another frosh, may also be entered.

Bruce MacInnis will enter the diving along with one other who will be selected Saturday. Practice is being held at the "Y" for the team members.

This meet will place swimming on the list of Lawrentian intercollegiate sports, and rounds out the Blue teams into a group that corresponds favorably with many universities. Several meets are being scheduled after spring vacation. The Green Bay "Y" and the Fond du Lac teams will be in Appleton for meets, and the Bluefins will also visit their tanks.

The meet with Chicago Monday is open to the public and support is urged for this sport.

Hold Boxing Finals Saturday Afternoon

Sophomore-Senior Clash To End Bowling Meet

The sophomores will bowl against the seniors Friday afternoon in the final match of the girls' interclass tournament. With the seniors supported by the highest individual bowler, and the sophomores scoring high in the preliminary matches, the outcome of the tournament cannot easily be predicted.

The sophomores defeated the freshmen Tuesday by fifty-nine points. On Wednesday, the seniors defeated the juniors by fifty-five points. The sophomore second team defeated the senior seconds on Monday by thirty points. Constance Raymaker, '27, rolling 173, made the highest score in any individual game of the tournament.

The bowling season will be officially closed Friday night when the teams will have dinner together at Ormsby.

Finals In Wrestling Held Tuesday Night

The finals in the intramural wrestling tournament were held Tuesday night in Alexander gym. Seven matches were scheduled, but three of the grapplers did not appear and, as a result, the bouts were forfeited to their opponents.

In the 115 pound class Rohan threw Winslow in five minutes and forty-five seconds; and in the 125 pound class Kniep had a hard time in getting the edge on Zingler in ten minutes. Setter threw Olson in the 135 pound class in two minutes. There was not any match in the 145 pound division, as McMahon, who was supposed to have wrestled Purves did not make his appearance. Dreher had an edge on Lautenbach in the 155 pound class.

Barfell in the 165 pound class forfeited a match to Nobles, and Williamson, 185 pounds, forfeited to Krohn.

Faculty Women Hold Early Spring Picnics

Faculty women claim to hold the unchallenged record of having the earliest down-river parties in the spring and the latest ones in the fall. On February 1, while the majority of students were busily engaged with text-books in preparation for the approaching crisis known as exams, with no time to realize that spring was approaching, a group of faculty members hiked down river.

Tuesday the lady instructors hiked to Alicia Park, where they held their second picnic of the season.

Leads Discussions At Y.M. and Y.W. Meeting

Dr. Henry Hitt Crane led the discussion at a joint meeting of the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. cabinets in Sage parlors Wednesday afternoon. The main topic of discussion was the means of making "Y.W." and "Y.M." of greater value to Lawrence students.

"The first thing to be done," Dr. Crane said, "is to get a definite goal in mind and make a stand on some live issue."

He suggested war as an especially interesting topic for discussion, and referred to the Nicaraguan crisis at the present time.

Dr. Denyes Gives Speech

Dr. J. R. Denyes addressed the religious education group of the First Presbyterian church Tuesday night on "The Evolution of Christian Religion."

Enthusiastic Audiences Hear Crane Lectures

said Thursday morning, "when in reality they are not. They may have religion, but religion without righteousness is like a lamp without oil. No preparation is useful unless it is internal."

"You may have sentiment," he explained, "but unless it is sentiment with habit it isn't worth much. It is also necessary to have training, but it must be also training of the will. Training of the will is one of the most vital of human needs," he added, "and it is one we don't get. As a result it leaves us weak in hours of moral crises."

"It is important that we have goodness, but it should be goodness mixed with gladness—not gloom. The trouble with the prevailing lack of appreciation of young people for religion lies in the gloomy atmosphere surrounding it. Young people aren't to be approached that way."

Concluding his speech, the speaker summed up the other point necessary for true life. This he said was love, but love with loyalty. Loyalty he expressed as being the heart of love, and that no real love was possible without it.

Dr. Crane spoke in chapel again last evening, and closed his series before Lawrence students this morning.

Dramatic Art Class Studies Four Plays

The dramatic art class is working on four plays which are to be presented in class soon. They are "Suppressed Desires", by Susan Gaspell, "Riders to the Sea", by John Millington Synge, "Rehearsal", by Christopher Morley, and "Ever-Young", by Alice Gerstenberg.

"Suppressed Desires" was read by Ione Kreiss, '28, Viola Foster, '27, and John Robson, '28, before the Appleton Kiwanis Club Wednesday noon.

French Students Enter Briand Speech Contest

Seven Lawrence students will submit papers in the national Briand speech translation contest, which is being conducted in colleges throughout the United States by the Briand speech committee of Washington, D.C.

The speech, which was delivered at Geneva last September, by M. Aristide Briand, premier of France, upon the admission of Germany into the League of Nations, is recognized as an outstanding world oration, in form as well as content. It is because Premier Briand's address is such a fine example of literary French, and because it indicates such a friendly spirit toward Germany that the French government is desirous of having an authorized English translation made. From the translations submitted by students of American colleges the best will be selected as the authorized English version.

A prize of $75 will be awarded to the winner, $50 to the winner of second place, and $25 to the third place.

All manuscripts must be in the hands of the committee at Washington by April 15.

Alumnus Appointed Associate Professor

Earnest A. Hooton, '07, is to be advanced next September from assistant professor of anthropology at Harvard to associate professor at the same school.

After graduating from Lawrence, Professor Hooton received his Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin in 1911, and studied at Oxford, receiving his Litt. B. there in 1913. He then went to Harvard, where he was an instructor until 1921.

Professor Hooton is also curator of somatology at the Peabody Museum at Harvard.

Members of the freshman composition class under Professor F. W. Clippinger, along with their work in reading and writing essays, are compiling a reading list of essays. It is hoped that this bibliography will be broad and inclusive enough to warrant having it mimeographed for the use of anyone interested in essays.

Danny Trelevan, ex-'29, Fond du Lac, visited at the Beta Sigma Phi house Sunday.
